

Ph. D. Career (Employment Support) Seminar

Obtaining a Ph.D. degree is a way to master research and opens the way for career development. However, the job search for Ph.D. is different from the normal route, and information is difficult to get because industries and companies have their own recruitment. In this seminar, we invite experts to talk about the various doctoral career paths and their supports and discuss the future careers for participants.

Seminar Schedule

Seminar 1: Job Search for Ph.D. Candidate

Learn about various doctoral careers and the actual job search activities.

- Time: Oct. 6 (Wed.) 13:00~16:00
- Method: Zoom
- Participants: M1, M2, D1

Seminar 2: Writing skills for “Entry-Sheet”

Learn writing skills for entry sheet to appeal your research as a Ph.D.

- Time: Oct. 29 (Fri.) 9:30~12:00
- Method: Zoom
- Participants: D2, D3

Lecturer Profile

Emerging Technologies Corporation President: Tomonori Fukasawa

He started a career support business that matches between doctoral candidates struggling to build a career path from academia to industry and companies seeking R&D capabilities but suffering with human resources shortages, and became the president of the company in 2012.

He has developed a job search support website that is used by more than 8,000 Ph.D. students, and is responsible for internship, employment, and career support for doctoral students such as universities and the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology. He is working on the development and career support of doctoral students from all perspectives and positions in industry-academia-government and supports individuals through individual career counseling.

Registration

google form